

Find your own potential

In this book, based on his discourses, Osho talks about woman not in his capacity as a man, but as a 'consciousness, an awareness'.

Osho talks about various issues like motherhood, relationships, family and birth control. Questioning the concept of marriage, he says it is the 'ugliest institution invented by man' as its aim is to monopolize a woman. He is equally critical of the institution of family which 'corrupts the human mind'. A woman, he says, should not imitate man: 'Rejoice in your feminine qualities, make a poetry out of them.' The perfect state of being, according to Osho, is a synthesis between the head and the heart, with the heart remaining the master. The rare sensitivity of Osho's words will appeal to both men and women.
