I would like to acknowledge the immense role of my family in enabling me to complete this project. My parents and in-laws have always believed in me and provided me unstinting support in all my endeavors. My brother and sister-in-law helped me believe in myself and were always there for me with ready words of encouragement. My two children, Ameya and Jyotiraditya, who readily accepted my absence for long hours as I worked on this book and as for my wife Deepa, words are inadequate to describe her contribution as she is an equal partner in all that I feel and do. Along with the publishers, I am also thankful to the following reviewers for their rich inputs in the shaping of this book:

- ❖ Veena Vohra, Narsee Monjee Institute of Management Studies, Mumbai
- ❖ Puspendra Priyadarshi, Management Development Institute, Gurgaon
- ❖ Anuradha, TAPMI Management Institute, Manipal
- ❖ Pooja Lakhpal, Indian Institute of Foreign Trade, New Delhi
- ❖ Suresh Gupta, Sharda University, Greater Noida

Managing Human Resources

EIGHTH

Productivity, Quality of Work Life, Profits

Managing Human Resources is all about managing people through three critical strategic objectives that guide all HR functions: productivity, quality of work life, and profits. These three key objectives will help the students in gaining and strengthening their perception of human resource management as a significant function, which affects individuals, organizations, and society.

This special Indian edition integrates application of management theory with a western orientation in the Indian context for deeper understanding of the Indian social and cultural milieu. While retaining the original framework and flavor of the book, relevant text, cases, and examples in Indian context have been added throughout in this special Indian edition.
